AMERANT BANK TOGETHER WITH RON MAGILL VIRTUALLY ANNOUNCE 2020 ZOOLENS PHOTOGRAPHY PROJECT WINNERS

Amidst the COVID-19 pandemic, Amerant’s Zoolens Photography Project for Miami-Dade middle school students is celebrated with surprise virtual calls by Ron Magill from Zoo Miami

Coral Gables, FL. (May 12, 2020) – Amerant (NASDAQ: AMTB and AMTBB), one of the largest banks headquartered in Florida, virtually announced the winners of its renowned 2020 Zoolens™ Photography Project on social media beginning Earth Day to May 6th. Ron Magill made daily announcements on Amerant and Zoolens’ social media channels including: Zoolens Instagram, Zoolens Facebook, Amerant Instagram, and Amerant Facebook.

Founded in 2010 and developed in partnership with Zoo Miami and the Zoo Miami Foundation, the Bank’s photography contest was created to encourage and increase appreciation for photography and wildlife amongst middle school students throughout Miami-Dade County.

Due to COVID-19 and social distancing efforts, this year’s annual event called for social media and surprise virtual announcements of winners and honorable mentions, which were viewed by thousands of followers on social media. Students, teachers, judges, sponsors, friends and family anxiously awaiting daily announcements made by South Florida’s favorite personality, Ron Magill, Zoo Miami’s Director of Communications and Nikon® Ambassador.

“Over the past 10 years, the Zoolens Photography Project has become one of our most important community initiatives. Despite the fact that we could not host an event in person this year, we felt we needed to ensure we let the whole world know how much we appreciate and honor our students and teachers for their talents, dedication, and hard work. They are the ones that truly inspire our commitment and passion for the Zoolens project year after year and I must say this year’s submissions were extraordinary,” said Millar Wilson, Vice-Chairman and CEO of Amerant.

“We were all beyond impressed with the talent that we have in our schools in our Miami-Dade community, which made judging all the more challenging for us, but our students, parents, teachers, sponsors and partners have all risen to the occasions and we are humbled and truly proud of how far we have gone with the Zoolens project despite the challenges we faced with the coronavirus,” said Ron Magill. “We are grateful for everyone’s role in the Zoolens project as well as our partners at Amerant and our generous sponsors for their commitment, we are looking forward on what’s to come in 2021.”

Submissions were reviewed by a distinguished panel of judges based on composition, artistic merit, technical ability and clever title. The panel of judges included Ron Magill, Pulitzer Prize-winning photojournalist Patrick Farrell, internationally-acclaimed photo artist María Martínez-Cañas, as well as New World School of the Arts visual arts professor and curator Rosario Martínez-Cañas.

The 2020 photography contest held a kick-off event on February 15th at Zoo Miami in celebration of the project, where students joined noted wildlife photographer Ron Magill for an exciting behind-the-scenes tour and wildlife photography tips. Pitman Photo Supply representatives provided access to loaner digital Nikon® camera equipment for up to 30 students.

With a deep commitment to supporting the community and the arts, Amerant invited students to visit Zoo Miami earlier this year to creatively photograph wildlife and submit their favorite animal photo during the month-long contest that ran from February 15th through March 15th. Hundreds of submissions were received from students across the county for a chance to win a range of prizes and up to $2,000 in an Amerant Savings Account.

On April 22nd, Ron Magill began announcing honorable mentions, winners, as well as Top Teacher award via social media which is given to the teacher with the most student submissions, Facebook Fans’ Choice for the photo with the most likes. Honorable mentions and winners are:
• First Place: Maria Grant from Southwood Middle School -- her photo titled, “Ruler of the Underworld,” winning the grand prize of a $2,000 Amerant savings account, Nikon camera and a North American Nature Photography Association membership
